Intelligence Data Report

Exploring “Osho,” and how it relates to communism, the Indian National Army, and Russia.

Americans are doing the best they can.

The landscape in which we live is corrupted.

But there are many good people fighting.

Put on your God’s armor & support the fight.

Casenotes:

- “Rajneesh was later to say, "I have been interested in communism from my very childhood...communist literature — perhaps there is no book that is missing from my library. I have signed and dated each book before 1950. Small details are so vivid before me, because that was my first entry into the intellectual world. First I was deeply interested in communism, but finding that it is a corpse I became interested in anarchism — that was also a Russian phenomenon — Prince Kropotkin, Bakunin, Leo Tolstoy. All three were anarchists: no state, no government in the world." He became briefly associated with socialism and two Indian nationalist organisations: the Indian National Army and the Rashtriya Swayamsevak Sangh. However, his membership in the organisations was short-lived as he could not submit to any external discipline, ideology, or system.” -Wikipedia
- The Indian National Army (INA), sometimes Second INA; Azad Hind Fauj / /ˈɑːzɑːðˈhɪnd̪ˈfoːdʒ/; lit. 'Free Indian Army') was a Japanese-allied and -supported armed force constituted in Southeast Asia during World War 2 and led by Indian anti-colonial nationalist Subbas Chandra Bose. It comprised primarily of British Indian Army POW's taken by Japan. Indian civilians were also enlisted, with around 18,000 joining.
