2016–2019: The Re-Normalization of Extremist, Violent, Terroristic, and Warfare-Based Shame Politics

Mostly geared toward Americans who oppose the left's views.

In other words, the left is heavily reliant on “Nazi-level” tactics to harm the people they disagree with. This may include blame-shifting, gaslighting, shame politics, and other forms of psychological warfare. This group wanders in and wanders out. Some people stay a while; others learn their lesson and say, “It’s time for me to get out of this cult.” One thing they have in common is that they all shout, “Shame, shame, shame,” without a doubt, without much thought—shame is the word most heavily taught. Someone with a microphone or megaphone, leads the way, and others join in, they follow the leader, and never question what they say. They feel angry! Hostile! So they just plain shame away.

These left-wing groups are participating in unchecked lunacy. There is no accountability. They can do and say whatever they want, towards whoever they want. Yell, scream, assault, say the worst things humans can say, it does not matter to them, they can do no evil, do no wrong. Only others are to blame.

They need to be held to much higher standards in order for our society to progress. This is far from progress; this is barbarism, violence, and social harm. They do not care about any view other than their own and are willing to resort to the worst of humanity to get their way.

Like evil, spoiled children with plenty of toys, yet they want yours! Hence, the shame politics. They cannot stand when others succeed, so they shame and guilt them. “Give me my blank, or else!” They demand it! Blackmail for it! Ruin whatever event for it! Even a child’s recital! It does not matter. These mobs are operating on “autopilot,” following their leaders.

In this first case, listed below, the leader is Rabbi Debra Kolodny. Unfortunately, a theme within the left-wing protest arena, taking center stage and paving the way, appears to involve those within the Jewish faith, and those with fictitious names. It is quite the operation.

So, where is their accountability? Why are they so radical? Have they ever done therapy? If so, why didn’t therapy work for them? Truth be told, the left are the ones causing most of society’s problems today. They have become their very own societal wrong, injustice, and crime wave. Some things even therapy will not fix.

There is no brave in shame campaigns. No sanity either.
