OSIRAM'S CAST IN GLOBAL THEATER WAR "TORQUERE's"

"Extort," "distort," and "commit a tort" are related by their Latin root "torquēre" (meaning "to twist"), but they have distinct meanings.

Extort: To obtain something, typically money, property, or services, from a person by force, threats, intimidation, or undue or unlawful use of authority. The threats can involve physical harm, property damage, or the exposure of embarrassing or damaging private information (blackmail).

Distort: To twist something out of its natural, normal, or original shape or condition. This can refer to physical objects or, more commonly, to facts, statements, or information in a way that makes them misleading or false. Smear campaign, twist truth, distort character, slander or defame.

Commit a tort: To commit a "tort" means to engage in a wrongful act or violate someone's rights, which causes loss or harm to another person, resulting in legal liability. Torts are civil wrongs (not criminal crimes) that lead to lawsuits seeking monetary compensation for damages, such as personal injury, property damage, or financial loss. Examples include negligence, assault, battery, and trespass.

These are the patterns we have seen from the Great Thief of Peace!
