

Historic African Slavery Becomes Modern White Slavery

Exclusion and “Decolonization” of Whites and White Culture

Today, African slavery becomes modern White slavery, and modern “decolonization” practices herd the masses into a state of mind that isn’t healthy, factual, normal to the culture in the region, nor compassionate. It seeks to “replace” the harms of the past with new harms, to fight rather than to truly “free” us and emancipate us. Isolated and deceptive group advocacy teaches historic harms yet ignores the modern culture of abuse, violence, trafficking, arson, and thievery that this same group may be responsible for. It seeks to ignore, suppress, and disempower one while empowering another.

Its advocates are willing to go to the far ends of evil, of the new creation of modern trafficking, to retell the stories of transatlantic slavery. Its heretics shout “decolonize” while often being colonials themselves, and many do not have ancestors who actually endured slavery — roughly 41% report that their ancestors were enslaved in the United States, perhaps — but this number only represents Black slaves. It rarely recognizes White slaves, rarely recognizes the punishment of Whites, and it rarely recognizes the wars that Whites fought in order to eradicate slavery. In fact, it fights to ensure this story is never told.

Instead, it punishes, penalizes, and goes to war. It lights fires, vandalizes, and is so cruel today that it even kills. It kills Whites out of revenge and redemption, as if killing innocent people is a redeemable thing.

We had a great period in our history where we acknowledged Black slavery and its harms, but this honoring took too much. It overshadowed other pieces of history. It became “me, me, me,” or else: “Or else I will hurt you, punish you, take from you, and you will absorb all the pains of ‘my ancestors.’” And though I’ve taken all that I could, I will take more.

I will take over your streets. I will take over your companies. I will take over your schools. I will take over your parks and statues. I will take, take, take, take over any and all Whites, your time, space, and life. I want the full and total spotlight, and full and total White exclusion.

Race war now in formation, willing to take from anyone, foreign or domestic, who was White. The energy of hate and spite, fear and intimidation, population demographics, crime and census control, aggressions and violence — it wasn’t speaking to heal; it was speaking to end the White deal, to alter it all, to take it all.

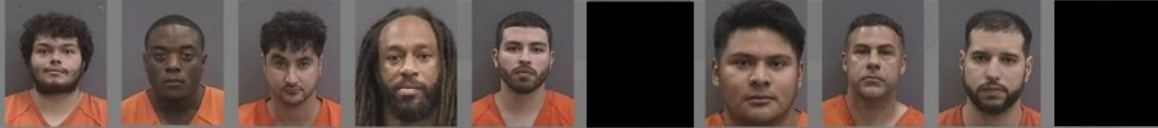

A supremacy movement, a movement to install new power, a movement with guns and knives and a criminal wavelength, to damage, destroy, and die, or “DEI” the “opposition.” To promote the same chains that hold us all down. To opt out of White humanity, completely.

To exclude all Whites and include all else, the violent predator of race itself, became modern war, modern slavery.
