

Warning to Women

If you are exposed to harmful pesticides, specifically Permethrin or Termidor, dispose of all clothing items that may be contaminated, specifically items that may be in close contact with glands, the reproductive system, or the thyroid.

This pesticide is a known carcinogen, with very little available data. It is 6,000x as toxic as DDT, a chemical already banned, and can wreak havoc on human systems within moments of being sprayed. It is a highly toxic, cancerous, and volatile compound.

Its use has been normalized, but the experience is far from normal. It feels as if a chemical bomb has been dropped on our homes and there is no reprieve. It especially attacks the nervous system at night, when the body and parasympathetic nervous system are at rest. It was made to attack the nervous system. This means it attacks when we are most vulnerable and unable to defend ourselves, during our rest and sleep.

Please take my warning: cancer, a life of nerve pain and disability, and thyroid disease are not worth it. Our hormone systems count on clean air, clean water, and clothes that are free from volatile chemical compounds that are built to kill.

They kill insects within moments. The claim is that the pesticide stays where it is sprayed, yet this is far from the truth. Your entire living environment, even when it is sprayed outside, may become contaminated and stay contaminated because the chemical is designed to last in nature.

It is a man-made product that is made to kill.

Warning to women.
