

Supportive Immigrant Civilians

There are a lot of civilians who are immigrants who are very supportive of Americans and American energy right now.

They are here because they genuinely like our culture. They are honest toward Americans and support Americans with their hearts.

Many genuinely respect the country, its people, its history, and the communities they have chosen to call home. They contribute in good faith, want to see Americans succeed, and understand that supporting their new community does not require diminishing the people who were already here.

People should ultimately be recognized by their individual conduct, intentions, honesty, and character.

Union of Saints sees you, appreciates you, and wants to say thank you. Genuine friendship, honesty, respect, and goodwill toward one another are very important to us. We recognize those who come with a good heart and genuinely want to be part of the American community, and we extend that same friendship, respect, and support to you.
