

Analyzing “Hate” Google Trends

Observations:

1. People seem to believe that historical White cultures are “White” supremacies, which is why they are White. This is a dangerous and genocidal ideology. It is clear that White cultures (our family, heritage, and people) are under attack. Learn history the right way instead of the biased Left way, and if you don’t like White people, stay in your own lane.
 - Stop forcing instrumental diversification and culture change; it’s race war.
2. Antisemitism is a highly sought-after Google search. I will be honest, I did not know of any “derogatory terms.” I had to research a word to Google. I remembered “Zionism.” Zionism was sure to yield results. I am American and believe in Americanism within my own culture. I understand, to some extent, why “Zionism” exists. However, it is clear that ideological extremism, such as Lehi and Bolshevik Zionism, is wrong. These were and are Jewish radicals who oddly supported German Nazis, “open borders” for Jewish racial supremacy, as well as “socialism,” which may be compared to the experience within the United States today. These ideologies are evil to their core. “Houston: “Get a grip on reality before it gets a grip on you.” ~Cowdrey
3. Black hate seems to be alive and well. Interestingly, it seems that the Spanish class is searching Google for how to say the N-word in Spanish, which is a new trend. Around the world and within Spanish culture, there is a lot of hate and discrimination against Black people. It is too bad because these experiences isolate all of us and are why race groups get formed in the first place. Individuals should be judged by their character, not the color of their skin.
4. Hezbollah was moderate. I was also unsure of a derogatory word for Muslims. I do know that anti-Muslim hate is on the rise. Muslims can be some of the most peaceful people and are also often very kind and generous. This is true also of Jewish people. Religion, while offering us protection, sometimes creates division. This is our unfortunate reality. We are experiencing major cultural division at this time, much of it because of terrorism and wars overseas. It’s difficult, and no one wants to be judged by the actions of others. We hope for common ground among all people, and this is the goal.
