

Religions of Slavery

Religion Used as a Tool of Force, Fraud, Coercion

Religions are used as tools of war and slavery. Belief systems, especially established and long-standing ones, become weapons. Healthy spiritual searching and faith are twisted for control, allowing predators to exploit the vulnerable. Some predators believe they have immunity through religion, using its image as a shield to justify corruption, harm, and public deception.

In the United States, under the guise of “freedom,” and with protection from the Constitution, a hub is created. This protective hub becomes a tool for manipulation and psychological warfare, where groups use religion to recruit, deceive, and dominate. They wear holiness as a disguise, but their actions betray us. Their motives are dark, built not on love or truth, but on power and subjugation. They use religion to cause harm.
