

The Glorification of Murder By Protestors, Lindsay Clancy

— Vigil organizer Renee Kimball, of Maine, gathers Lindsay Clancy supporters in a circle for a moment of silence at a vigil outside Plymouth Superior Court on Thursday. Greg Derr / The Patriot Ledger / USA TODAY Network via Reuters

Jeanne Zaborski, a 72-year-old retired nurse from Rockland, Massachusetts, said she hopes the cases raise awareness about postpartum health. She and many others at the rally said they had been following the trial almost daily.

“It’s very sad,” Zaborski said. “I am a mother. I am a grandmother. I have a sister who had problems after birth and it’s just very sad. I hope Lindsay gets the care she needs and deserves and other women will come together like we did today.”

Rally organizer Renee Kimball implored the crowd to trust that Reddington “has Lindsay’s fight.”

“It’s important that we just be still, have a moment of silence and know that God is working through us for Lindsay and for the rest of

Is This Another OvSky Campaign?

Source: <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=6w-z3U4n9xc>

Activists’ Vigils Out of Control — New England, We Require Peace, Sanity, and Stability

Just to be clear, this was not an act of “God.” This was a modern atrocity, and it is incredibly bizarre that this many women, according to the news, “resonate” with this case. Instead of justice for these children, these activists are seeking no penalty for murder.

Don’t they have anything better to do? Don’t they have children to take care of? What message does this send to their own children?

She abused and strangled her children with an exercise band. The case for insanity has already been made, not only for Lindsay Clancy, but also for the protesters seeking justice for her instead of for her three innocent, now-slain children. Just because people can show up in numbers doesn’t mean serial murder should be justified or excused without penalty. It simply shows how severe our mental-health crisis is.

The abuse of these children was so severe that it is difficult to fathom. Imagine the pain and suffering they endured as their own mother stole their lives. It is a nightmare. A real life horror.

What message do the protesters really send? The same as every other “pro-criminal” movement. Insanity is never a justification, yet far too often, killers walk free because of radical, modern defense leagues like this. Enough already. We require sanity, not radical activist campaigns that glorify murder.

