

Peace-building starts first in the heart and, as a form of love and compassion, expands to our greater society. All the world is a reflection of our hearts.