- Hanut Abdulle, a Somali immigrant, killed 24-year-old Bryce Persang.
- Tsegaab Ademassu Binessu, an Ethiopian immigrant, angry at Americans, was reported to have killed three American women.
- Raul Ortiz Moran, a Mexican immigrant, raped and killed a 2-year-old girl.

Stories like these appear daily, yet many receive little mainstream news coverage. We recognize recurring patterns and synchronizations that are difficult to ignore, which is why we refer to this as a war. On this front, it is irregular, asymmetrical, and guerrilla in nature, yet it also represents an observable and recurring trend and movement.
