

The Choices

1. Democrats should not be so concerned with promoting mass migration. Instead, they should be primarily focused on ending modern slavery and violent crime, especially when such crimes are perpetrated by immigrants.
2. The only reason they might choose to support further mass migration rather than focus on combating modern slavery and ending American homelessness, would be if they support modern warfare and the genocide of the American people.

The choice is very clear:

Slavery and war are one and the same.
