

Revoking Birthright Modern Enslavists, Warfarists

I support revoking birthright citizenship when it involves individuals or families with documented actions as activists supporting treason, terrorists, or belligerents, particularly when there is credible evidence that individuals are bringing hostile political, military, or ideological activity into the United States.

This issue should not be viewed solely through the lens of where an individual was born. We should also consider whether individuals are engaging in demonstrable hostile conduct, acting as foreign belligerents, facilitating terrorism, trafficking, espionage, harming American people and culture or other acts that threaten the United States.

Chain migration can be positive when families contribute to and strengthen our country. However, family networks can also be exploited during wartime. When individuals actively facilitate hostile operations, serve as modern combatants, or maintain operational allegiance to a foreign power engaged in conflict with Americans, those actions should be taken seriously.

This understanding is vital to the health, safety, and security of our nation.

American citizenship should not be treated as an automatic shield from accountability when an individual has crossed the line into genuine acts of warfare, terrorism, blackmail, espionage, revenge pornography, trafficking, fourth-generation warfare, or other demonstrable hostile conduct. There should be meaningful legal consequences, including revocation of citizenship, for those actions.

Love Americans more than foreign warfarists. us

The goal should be protecting the American people and preserving the integrity of American citizenship. Americans must hold individuals accountable when foreigners have engaged in hostile conduct against the United States.
