

More Strawberries?

 r/asklatinamerica • 2y ago
Strawberry2828  United States of America

I suppose this might be a dumb question, but why has no Latin country, outside Mexico, fought USA?

Politics (Other)

I kinda understand the US is powerful and what not but there are countries like that have fought Russia, which was also super power at one point, like Georgia, Chechen etc. The US has done messed up things to, (I'm assuming) to every Latin country. Why hasn't any Latin country fought back? Especially the big countries like Brazil and Argentina Archived post. New comments cannot be posted and votes cannot be cast.

 22   95   Share

 TrimRx • Promoted ...

If weight-loss has felt harder lately...

trimrx.com

Learn More

Sort by: Best  Search Comments

 tremendabosta • 2y ago
 Brazil  Top 1% Commenter

This might be a dumb question, but why would a Latin American country fight the US?

  202   Award  Share ...

 Padre_De_Cuervos • 2y ago
 El Salvador

Being invaded by them is a good casus bellis tbh.

  24   Award  Share ...

nostrawberries • 2y ago

The US hasn't really invaded lots of countries in teh Americas (directly). When it happened in Cuba and Panama they did fight back with varying degrees of success.

Sure they did support coups and plots, but those were carried out by each country. If a coup succeeded, there was no point tlin fighting back against your supporter. If it didn't, the national government would prioritise keeping coup plotters at bay over fighting a distant and stupidly powerful enemy head on.

Introduced by Assembly Member Bonta

~~(Coauthor: Assembly Member Elhawary)~~ (Coauthors: Assembly Members Bryan, Elhawary, Lowenthal, and Ward)

(Coauthors: Senators Durazo, Gonzalez, Pérez, and Rubio)