

2026: The Hate Cult vs. Woodstock

You are wrong. You are hateful, violent protesters.

A Helter-Skelter White-Hate, Anti-American Crime Movement

The conduct shown in these videos is disturbing. Nick Shirley is repeatedly subjected to racial and homophobic slurs, including “n—r,” “cracker,” “White boy,” “honkey,” “Nazi,” “KKK,” and “f—t.” Protesters also tell him to kill himself, insult his family and sexuality, accuse him of rape and White supremacy, and repeatedly scream profanity directly in his face.

Members of the crowd attempt to suppress his speech, cover him with jackets, prevent him from walking freely, push him, throw water and a bottle at him, threaten to follow him, and tell him that he is not welcome. They hold up a Mexican flag, direct obscene gestures at him, condemn the police as “fascists,” and declare that they do not want “cops.” They even make the claim that they would rather that we had ISIS than ICE. These are not ordinary expressions of political disagreement; they are acts of terrorism, intimidation, racial hostility and mob harassment.

One person states, “If you do not want violence, you should remove the cause of the violence.” This is blame shifting. It attempts to make the target responsible for the aggression directed against him, even though his presence and speech do not justify assault, threats or harassment.

The police appear to do a commendable job of de-escalating an extremely hostile situation. They remain controlled while trying to protect public safety and prevent the encounter from becoming even more dangerous. Their conduct stands in sharp contrast to the aggression surrounding them.

As I scroll through my professional LinkedIn feed, I continually see requests for prayers for fallen officers. Today, I saw a photograph of an officer’s shoes after he had been shot in the chest. Images like this show why rhetoric portraying every police officer as an enemy can have serious consequences.

We recently shared the story of a woman who was sentenced to three months in jail after using the same racial slur when she was the victim of theft. Yet members of this crowd repeatedly direct racial abuse toward a White man as though their political beliefs excuse it. If racial degradation is wrong, it must be wrong regardless of the race of the person being targeted.

The conduct shown here should not be dismissed merely because it occurred at a protest. A crowd that surrounds someone, blocks his movement, screams racial and sexual abuse, throws objects and excuses violence is not behaving peacefully. It is behaving like a hostile mob.

These activists display cruelty, racism and contempt for the rights of an ordinary American citizen. They accuse others of fascism while using intimidation, collective condemnation and attempts at enforced silence. No political movement should receive permission to harass, threaten or assault people while claiming that its cause makes the conduct acceptable.

These videos document conduct that responsible political leaders should condemn plainly and without excuses. Our country cannot preserve equal rights by tolerating racial hatred and political violence whenever the target is considered ideologically unpopular. This is not a protest, it is a hostile cult of hatred, abuse, violence and White targeting.

We used to have Woodstock, now we get this?!
