

I whistle & they chirp back

"I whistle, and they chirp back, branch by branch, song by song, my little friends share their stories, and I listen with all my heart. Birds are like flying puppies, little messengers of joy, reminding us to love, play, and notice the magic in every moment. Sunlight spills, wings flutter, and together we share quiet songs, laughter, and the simple wonder of being alive. Every tilt of a head, every gentle song, is a conversation, a reminder that love lives in listening, presence, and tiny shared moments."

~Cowdrey