

Concord, New Hampshire, Homeless Population, Migrant Population - 2019

Concord, New Hampshire, there are signs that homelessness has been a significant and changing issue, but the available data need to be separated between Concord and New Hampshire as a whole.

- Concord's own homelessness reporting showed 323 people actively experiencing homelessness in May 2025 among clients being served through the regional system.
- The Concord Coalition to End Homelessness estimated about 300 chronically homeless individuals in Concord in early 2024, including people in shelters, vehicles, and encampments.
- Statewide, the 2025 Point-in-Time count increased from 2024: 1,754 people were counted in sheltered homelessness and 672 unsheltered, with the unsheltered number up 73 from 2024.
- Longer term, New Hampshire's unsheltered homelessness has risen substantially. The 2024 report found 579 unsheltered people, compared with 149 in 2019.

There is also a newer indicator specifically from Concord: the police department logged 210 homelessness-related calls for service during the last quarter of 2025. The city cautions that a large portion of the reported officer time was connected to a particular homicide investigation, so that number shouldn't be interpreted as a direct measure of the homeless population.

Concord, New Hampshire has a sizable foreign-born population, and it has increased over the longer term, although the most recent Census estimates do not show an ongoing rapid increase.

According to the U.S. Census Bureau:

- 2020–2024: about 7.3% of Concord's population was foreign-born, approximately 3,247 people.
- Concord's total population was 43,976 in the 2020 Census, compared with 42,695 in 2010.
- The current Census estimate puts Concord at about 44,600 people.
- The foreign-born population is diverse: the most recent Census-based profile estimates approximately 32% Africa, 30% Asia, 26% Europe, 9% Latin America, and 4% Northern America among Concord's foreign-born residents.

There is also documented refugee resettlement in Concord. A New Hampshire Housing Finance Authority report records 1,187 refugees resettled in Concord during FY2012–FY2021, with the annual numbers declining substantially after 2016.
