

This is our modern Fourth Generation Warfare front. It's people like Aaron Farinacci who destroy lives, homes, and communities.

Man who police say k*illed his father over dishes and WAS RELEASED is accused of torching 700 homes in Spokane.

Police say Aaron Farinacci, 37, shot his father d*ad in Mesa, Arizona in 2010 after an argument about washing the dishes.

He pointed the gun at his mother, then shot himself and survived. Charged with first-degree m*urder, he pleaded guilty to mansl*ughter and was eventually released.

This week investigators arrested him for first-degree arson in the Old Trails Fire north of Spokane, Washington. The blaze destroyed around 700 structures, most of them homes, and forced as many as 65,000 people to evacuate.

Authorities say it was intentionally set. Farinacci was found with waterproof matches and a butane lighter. Witnesses reported a nervous man kneeling in the grass at the exact origin point.

On the day the fire started, police stopped him about a mile away, questioned him, and let him go so they could focus on the emergency.

The sheriff noted prior contacts for arson-related behavior. Prosecutors credit "vigilant citizens" who refused to stay silent for cracking the case. He is held on $1 million bond.

A man who allegedly m*rdred his own father over chores walked free long enough to leave hundreds of families staring at ashes.
