Fox's Tarlov Defends Anti-ICE Protesters Against Cackling Co-Hosts

Feedback

Fox News' Jessica Tarlov defended ICE protesters and No Kings rally demonstrators as her co-hosts mocked them for dressing in inflatable animal costumes and singing.

On Friday's The Five, the hosts covered Saturday's planned-No Kings rallies and noted that arrests were made at a protest outside of an Illinois ICE facility where demonstrators and police clashed. Chicago's ABC-7 reported that 11 arrests were made at the protest where some demonstrators could be seen singing and wearing animal costumes.

As Tarlov defended the No Kings rallies against President Donald Trump, Joey Jones jumped in to ask why liberal protesters are always dressing like "furries," referring to the Illinois clashes.

"Why are they always dressed like a furry, screaming about boys and girls?" Jones asked, adding "they are ridiculous."

Jones and Tarlov then clashed over whether these protesters are making an "intellectual" argument against the administration.

"It is an intellectual argument to say Kristi Noem — you're making it up about

Watch what happens when a 5,000kg orca hits a boat – it doesn't end well

2w

Orcas have started targeting boats in multiple regions, ramming hulls and disabling rudders in coordinated ways that suggest learned behavior. What makes this even more unusual is how consistently these interactions are happening, as if it's spreading between pods. Scientists still don't fully understand the cause, but it's clear this isn't random...
