

Cutie Pies On The Republican Side

There are a lot of cutie pies on the Republican side. It makes me feel safer and happier with them because I know they care sincerely about America and our safety. There are all kinds of great people on the Republican side, and they may be Americans, or even immigrants, they can be any race or ethnicity or religion. I appreciate that they in their hearts support Americans, and believe in American values. They also support very strongly American safety, security and well being. The primary topics are topics that I as a veteran relate too. It feels very much aligned with the needs of Americans at this time. There is a connection with the real world, it is grounded and respectful. There is a lot of masculine energy, yet it is not overwhelming, it feels very self assured, secure and warm. The same is true of the women, the experience is reserved, loving, genuine and honest. It has been very easy to make friends and feel supported. The environment is more structured, more at ease, and yet very focused. It feels normal, like reflecting with the community after reviewing the news each day, but it is not a heated debate, and there is no arguing, it is simply to consider the concerns and then to discuss them as friends and companions. The community feels more mature, and normal. When I see different members in the community who are immigrant or of a different race, I naturally feel better about the energetic exchange, there is a mutual understanding and if we are discussing race it doesn't feel pressured or that I am lowered, it feels more equal. I am grateful for the cutie pies on the Republican side and just want to say thank you for making me feel more safe and comfortable in a world that so often is no longer as kind. You are doing a great job.
