For Healing, Reconciliation, and Boundary Setting

The Party of Americans Who Share One Common Thread: They Are Descendants of the Early Pilgrims

Pilgrim Declaration

I, [State Your Name], am a proud descendant of the Early Pilgrims. I honor the courage, perseverance, spirit, and enduring legacy of those who helped establish some of the earliest settlements in America. I recognize the importance of preserving their history and the contributions they made to the development of modern American society.

I honor my family heritage, traditions, and culture. I will never allow another to tread upon my spirit or my family as we have witnessed in recent years. I honor my culture. I love my culture, and I will stand for my culture, as our families before us always have. I am grateful for all that we have the privilege of today, and I thank our ancestors for all they have provided.

I seek healing where healing is possible, reconciliation where truth and goodwill exist, and healthy boundaries that preserve the safety and freedom of my family and my community. I believe that peace is strengthened through integrity, mutual respect, and accountability, and that true reconciliation never requires surrendering one's identity, heritage, or convictions.

We say this with the strength of the descendants who stand here today, and with reverence for the memory of those who came before us, that no shadow shall be cast upon us, no transgression, violence, or harm shall overcome us, and that our spirit we will defend through soul, bloodline, and body. We are the proud descendants of America.

This is our pledge.
