

Bright & Shiny Movement, It's Not a Game. It's a War.

It's a war front. It's a bright and shiny war front. It's a young war front; alas, it is a war front. Why? What went wrong? Well, it treats the entire world as a minority population within the now very small "ethnic American" culture. Furthermore, it ostracizes the white population as a "supremacist enemy," rather than viewing the U.S. as a culture worthy of protecting. Ethnic America becomes the enemy or obstacle that must be overcome. They think it's a game.

It takes the new foreign nation and adds it to the "old" minority populations, manipulated and misguided, now partners, now a movement. It is all "good" intentions, mobilized from within, and also supported by foreign and domestic enemies. Of course, the goal is supremacy, as with all movements or wars. Territory control and conquering are the goals. A vulnerability was seen, compassion, charity, open borders, and now the vulnerability is exploited. Demographic shifts. The game changes.

The above-ground movement is bright; births rise, eugenics disguised, yet hints of war are littered everywhere. Hurtful words are abundant. We follow the money trails: Russia, Russia, Russia; Israel, Israel, Israel; Mexico, Mexico, Mexico. Naturally, inquisitive minds reach for answers, but it is also painful. Survival instincts kick in. The stars of the above-ground movement make their voices heard. The internet is full of Cold War abundance. A modern "trail of tears" is found along the way. Slavery, slavery, slavery. Injustice here, here, and here. A slavery game?

Where are the American voices? All foreigners. Success? DOJ: a criminal success. Where are the American faces? Homeless, displaced, struggling to stay out of poverty. War, war, war. It was all overseas. Still foreign, now domestic. Not an American game.

Those who seek shall find the rhythm of those who seemingly outshined ethnic Americans in their own country, and on whose dimes? Not only do they sponsor outsiders, but they train them too. Millions of dollars in training. Donor-funded. Israel-funded. Russia-supported. Mexico-supported. Latin American-supported. China-supported. Communism? Marxism? What do they have to do with the price of peanuts? The cost is freedom. War games.

Thousands upon thousands of new mobilizers, activists, politicians, lawyers. The sponsored, the foreign-sponsored, the movement, the bright and shiny above-ground movement. Some good, some bad, far less concerned with what America had. A great country, an All-American game.

While Americans scream and shout, "We're losing our home, get out!" A movement, a success, a criminal movement, a war, a highly mobilized and well funded war. Americans say, "We hope you enjoy home plate at Americans' expense!"

They raise their profits. A very nice suit, a good meal. "Open society, lures, it reels." Vulnerable Americans. A cost, a lost cause. An art of instrumental migrations, a success, a burden. Drug war proliferations. An exhibition of the American museum. See that display, that homeless display. No longer a home game.

Forced. A push-pulling of the curtain. American meet and greet became Americans raped and left for dead, enemy meat. Open society, open exhibition. A new frontier, a new show, a fraudscape. Open slavery, open war front. We used to go out to enjoy the game.

Now we are going to a war.

Borders closed, criminal investigations open.

The Truth: We are at war with any mobilized movement that seeks to subject the American people to harm, violence, slavery, or territorial warfare.
