

Put it all together, and what do you got?

- Sex changes without parental consent
- Unwillingness to hold child predators accountable
- Drag queen story time and child grooming
- Images of naked grown men in classrooms
- Attacks against agencies that arrest traffickers
- Little to no accountability for traffickers and violent criminals, especially when they are Black, Brown, or of immigrant status
- Child grooming within activist spheres
- We realize that even Disney isn't safe anymore, but what about activist arenas? Especially LGBT spaces, where the most forced pornography events occur? I don't think so.
- Supporting foreigners over Americans, even when they are child predators
- Attacking our military and those who see through these issues
- Actively supporting the cartel, guerrilla army, nation building and territory expansion

These experiences paint a clear picture of how politicians and activists aid the human trafficking movement and war on children. It is worse than we can imagine, and the list continues into many other types of modern warfare.

This situation is too extreme. There is no negotiating with evil, and this is precisely the problem.
