

The War of Evil Eyes

6/13/26

The psychological warfare along the southern border has become increasingly visible through territorial signs, symbols, and behaviors encountered throughout the region, from Florida to Texas to California. Many Americans traveling through these areas are witnessing a level of hostility that does not reflect the spirit of the country they have known. These experiences create the impression that Americans can no longer travel freely within their own nation without encountering foreign intimidation, psych warfare, or hostility.

In many cases, these interactions create racial animosity or are deliberate efforts to make Americans, feel unwelcome. To those who experience it, the behavior is not subtle; rather, it is intended to intimidate, demean, or create fear. Over the last two years, I have traveled extensively throughout Florida, Texas, and Arizona. I have observed the patterns of racial violence, anti-American discrimination and aggression. The hostility against US citizens has become very concerning. It feels contrary to the American values of mutual respect, good manners, and neighborliness that many Americans associate with their nation.

The rise of territorial attitudes, whether connected to criminal organizations, political divisions, or social tensions, contributes to an atmosphere of distrust. When foreign citizens participate in these behaviors, it can create feelings of division and insecurity within our communities. Many Americans continue to recognize and uphold the principles that define their country, freedom, respect for others, personal liberty, and equal treatment under the law.

Despite experiences of hostility and intimidation, they continue to navigate the world while remaining committed to those values. This conviction, that Americans know the spirit, character, and ideals of their nation, remains strong. Many continue to stand together in support of one another as they confront challenges, divisions, and growing climate of psychological intimidation, or a "war of evil eyes."

These truths we hold, that despite the war of evil eyes, valued Americans remain committed to the safety, wellbeing, and prosperity of the communities they love and respect, immigrant and American alike. We remain kind, honoring people from all walks of life and treating others with mutual respect. We continue to stay true to the values and virtues we believe in, integrity, compassion, courage, fairness, and service to one another. Even in times of division and uncertainty, we strive to build stronger communities, uphold our principles, and contribute positively to the nation we call home.

A Message From Our President

“At my direction, the United States Southern Command delivered a swift and lethal kinetic strike to successfully execute Niño Guerrero, the infamous leader of Tren De Aragua, one of the most bloodthirsty Terrorist Organizations on Planet Earth. Before I returned to office, Joe Biden opened our Southern Border to millions of Illegal Criminals, and allowed this foreign army to rape, maim, and murder American Citizens with total impunity. During my Campaign, I pledged to expel these monsters from our Country, and bring Justice to the families of those they slaughtered, including the precious 12-year-old Jocelyn Nungaray, 22-year-old Laken Reilly, and countless other beautiful souls. With this action, the United States Military has brought retribution for them, their families, and their loved ones. Early in my Administration, I delivered on my promise to designate Tren de Aragua as a Foreign Terrorist Organization, deport thousands of evil criminals, and wage war against the Cartels, who have long been waging war against our Citizens, while weak leaders left America helpless and defensive. This action was coordinated closely with our friends in Venezuela, with whom we are working very well. As a result, Tren de Aragua terrorists no longer have safe haven in Venezuela or anywhere else and, under my leadership, we will find these vicious murderers and drugs lords anytime, anyplace, and send them to the depths of hell where they belong. GOD BLESS AMERICA! President DONALD J. TRUMP.”
