

Our Discovery — Political Intimidation and the American Homefront, Modern Warfare

We are increasingly concerned that political violence, intimidation, stalking, surveillance, theft, looting, fear campaigns, and unauthorized information gathering may be used as forms of political warfare intended to discourage Americans from speaking openly about matters affecting their safety, security, and communities. When political activity is accompanied by threats, coercion, intimidation, fraud, or unlawful surveillance, these actions may constitute forms of modern warfare.

For this reason, we advocate for meaningful accountability for any organization or individual found to have engaged in unlawful conduct. Where an organization has obtained or maintained legal status while actively engaging in intimidation campaigns, authorities should examine whether its legal privileges, funding, contracts, or other forms of governmental recognition remain appropriate under applicable law.

The American people must remain free to raise concerns about public safety, government policy, immigration, crime, economic conditions, and other matters of public importance without being subjected to intimidation or retaliation. We therefore call for an end to unlawful intimidation campaigns, coercion, fraud, exploitation of taxpayer resources, and any other conduct that unlawfully interferes with Americans' constitutional rights and civic participation.

The American homefront should remain governed by the law, constitution, and the rights of the American people. Our discovery is that these campaigners actions constitute crimes against humanity and forms of political warfare against the American people. These actions must be addressed through lawful restitution, with accountability for those responsible and an end to the conduct described above. Our position is that the American homefront must be returned to the American people and protected from political intimidation, any form of violence, force, fraud, coercion, and exploitation.

At this late stage, Abolish ICE campaigns and BLM campaigns are considered forms of modern warfare when they involve political intimidation, force, fraud, coercion, or other unlawful conduct directed against the American people.

CEASE AND DESIST

To Anti-American War Campaigners

Modern violent campaigners are engaged in anti-American war campaigns intended to assault, exploit, enslave, intimidate, and take the American homefront hostage. These campaigns must cease and desist.

We demand that all campaigns involving political violence, intimidation, stalking, surveillance, fear campaigns, coercion, force, fraud, unauthorized information gathering, and other unlawful conduct against the American people immediately cease.

We demand that those responsible return the American homefront to its rightful owners, the American people, and cease all efforts to intimidate Americans from exercising their rights to speak, organize, participate in government, and advocate for their own safety and protection.

This is a demand to cease and desist all anti-American political warfare, intimidation campaigns, and unlawful conduct directed against the American people.
