Custom Shock Selector: Which Coilovers Are Right For Me?

Use these three factors to determine which shock absorber is right for your vehicle:

1) Desired Ride Height, 2) Vehicle Usage and 3) Mount Type and Size.

1) Desired Ride-Height

First determine your vehicles stance front and rear. Once you have your vehicles stance, your ride height will be the measurement from mounting bolt to mounting bolt of where your coil-overs will bolt onto your chassis, when the vehicle is sitting on level ground.

2) Vehicle Usage

Is your car built for the Street? Track? Road-Course? Drag Racing? - Each type of use works best with a set shock

- Street - Single Adjustable or Non-Adjustable
- Track - Single Adjustable or Double Adjustable
- Road-Course - Single Adjustable or Double Adjustable
- Drag-Racing - Single or Double Adjustable

3) Mount Type and Size

What is the diameter of the mount your shocks will be bolting to? What size and style of mounts will you need?

- Bushing - 5/8", 1/2" | Best Ride for Street Use
- Bearing - 1/2" x 1/2" Wide, 1/2" x 1" Wide, 1/2" x 1 1/2" Wide | Best for Racing use and tight clearances.
