

palm beach opera production center west palm beach, florida

designel has enjoyed a long history with the Palm Beach Opera from working with them on the planning and details of the original Raymond F. Kravis Center for the Performing Arts and accommodating their needs in subsequent phases to analyzing various existing structures compatibility with their rehearsal and production needs. Our work with the Opera continues today with the phased improvements to an abandoned warehouse in West Palm Beach to serve as their new Production Center. The project includes a 2,600 sf main rehearsal hall, vocal training rooms, a costume shop and office and receiving areas.
