

Let the Shows Begin

Let the kids go back to school and cram for tests. We prefer to spend our fall tuning in to this season's exciting new comedies and dramas.

DRAMAS

Evil

What It's About: From award-winning producers Michelle and Robert King (The Good Wife, The Good Fight) comes a riveting supernatural procedural about a skeptical forensic psychologist (Katja Herbers) who partners with a priest in training (Mike Colter) to search for the spiritual truths behind reports of supernatural phenomena and demonic possession.

Starring: Katja Herbers, Mike Colter, Aasif Mandvi, Michael Emerson, Brooklyn Shuck, Skylar Gray, Maddy Crocco, and Dalya Knapp

Why We Love It: Wickedly smart and seriously creepy, Evil's marriage of science and religion makes it the fall show of our dreams (or is that nightmares?).

When It's On: Premieres Thursday, Sept. 26, at 10 p.m. ET/PT on CBS and streams on CBS All Access.

Batwoman

What It's About: After a dishonorable discharge from military school and years of survival training, wealthy heiress Kate Kane (Ruby Rose) returns to her hometown of Gotham City only to find Batman missing and crime on the rise. With the help of her stepsister and the tech genius Luke Fox (Camrus Johnson), Kane picks up the costumed vigilante mantle, battling bad guys—and her own demons—on her way toward becoming a true hero.

Starring: Ruby Rose, Dougray Scott, Meagan Tandy, Elizabeth Anweis, Nicole Kang, Camrus Johnson, and Rachel Skarsten

Why We Love It: In street clothes or spandex, Rose is nothing short of mesmerizing playing the first lesbian comic book character to anchor a solo series.

When It's On: Premieres Sunday, Oct. 6, at 8 p.m. ET/PT on The CW and streams at cwtv.com.
