

Q&A

Evil's Katja Herbers

The Dutch actress, 40, plays Kristen Bouchard, a skeptical psychologist investigating the supernatural, on the Paramount+ series.

What can you tell us about the new season?

The show is maybe more bonkers than it was last season. It's some of the wildest acting I've got to do in my career, because Kristen loses her mind.

That sounds intense!

I do have to unwind from that a little. If you pretend to be losing your mind, very easily you think maybe you are.

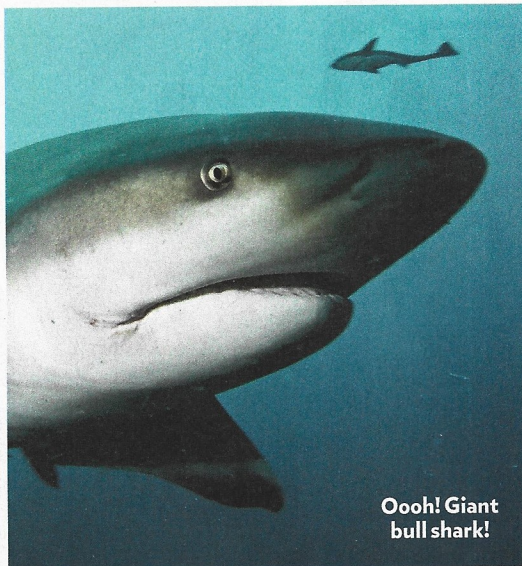

With costar Mike Colter.

Does filming scenes with a demon make you afraid to go to sleep?

No. Because we're all pretending—I know the guy in the suit. But I would be very scared if I were to watch it!

People picks

Oooh! Giant bull shark!

DISCOVERY | Shark Week

NATURE The annual sharkathon has rounded up another varied crew of celebrity fin-seekers, including Tiffany Haddish, David Dobrik, William Shatner, Brad Paisley and Dr. Pimple Popper (Sandra Lee), who'll study the dermatological science of shark skin. But of course the true stars are the aquatic behemoths appearing in such specials as Monster Sharks of Andros Island (July 16, 9 p.m.) and Mystery of the Black Demon Shark (July 16, 10 p.m.) (Kicks off July 11, 8 p.m.)

CW | Wellington Paranormal

COMEDY This horror mockumentary series from New Zealand is spun off from the brilliantly odd 2014 film What We Do in the Shadows (which also happens to be the source of the hit show on FX). It follows the misadventures of two cops (Mike Minogue and Karen O'Leary) as they chase down otherworldly suspects. Very dumb, frequently very funny. (July 11, 9 p.m.)

PURINA
Cat Chow
