HELPING IDA'S VICTIMS

CLEANING SUPPLIES DISTRIBUTION EVENT FOR HURRICANE IDA VICTIMS, SUPPORTING DOZENS OF LOCAL RESIDENTS

Senate Deputy Leader Michael Gianaris and Queens Borough President Donovan Richards hosted cleaning supplies distribution event for Woodside neighbors impacted by Hurricane Ida. Woodside on the Move joined Senator Gianaris and Borough President Richards' office. The supplies were donated by The Home Depot. Dozens of area residents picked up cleaning supplies, meals, and pantry staples donated for the event.

"Hurricane Ida upended lives and caused significant damage that continues to this day. We must be here to help our neighbors recover," said Senate Deputy Leader Michael Gianaris. "I'm proud to partner with Borough President Richards and Woodside on the Move to help our community."

"Storm recovery isn't an overnight process, and my office is committed to doing all we can for as long as necessary until all our families impacted by Ida's historic devastation are made whole again," said Queens Borough President Donovan Richards, Jr. "Thank you to Senator Gianaris, Woodside on the Move and Home Depot for helping make this critical distribution of supplies possible."

"Residents of Western Queens have been disproportionately impacted by Hurricane Ida. With cleaning supplies in need for recovering families, I'd like to thank Senator Gianaris and Queens Borough President Richards in proactively leading this effort for our communities, said Steven Raga, Executive Director for Woodside on the Move.

The leaders urged neighbors to replace their cleaning supplies following clean-up efforts from Hurricane Ida. Reusing mops, brooms, buckets, and other equipment to clean up water damage that may have been caused by sewer overflows can lead to further contamination and the spread of disease.

WHAT YOU CAN DO WHEN YOU'RE DIAGNOSED WITH A
 LIFE THREATENING ILLNESS

by Stan Popovich

What can you do when you find out from your doctor that you have a life-threatening illness? It can very scary when you realize that you have a serious health issue that could impact the rest of your life. As a result, here are eight tips on what you can do to help overcome your fears when it comes to dealing with an illness.

1. Get all of the facts: The first step you need to do is to get all of the facts regarding your health from your doctor. Do not rush to conclusions about your situation. Get all the necessary information and details of your condition from the professionals before rushing to any judgments. This is a great way in managing your fear of getting older.

2. Determine your options: Once you get all of the details about your illness, the next step is to go through your options with your doctor. Determine what you can do to get better. It is also recommended that you get a second and third opinion from other doctors. You do not want to rely on one person's advice when making a life altering decision regarding your health.

3. Stay positive: Remain positive and avoid negative thinking if possible. Read some self-help books that have a lot of positive affirmations and statements. Reading these statements can help you to remain positive and replace negative thoughts during your stressful times.

4. Pray often: Prayer works. There are many inspirational magazines and books on how people were helped through the power of prayer. Read some articles to get an idea on how effective prayer can be in your life. Never doubt the power of God. Ask God for help and talk to a priest or minister on how you can get closer to God.

5. Join a support group: Try to find a local support group that helps people in your situation. There are many programs out there that provide assistance to you and your loved ones while you are in a midst of a health crisis. Talk to your doctor or a mental health counselor for more information.

6. Spend time with friends: Develop a network of friends and get involved in different social activities. Friends can reduce loneliness and they can give encouragement regarding your situation. A person can also volunteer their time to help others. Volunteering can give you the perspective that there are people out there that are worse off than you.

7. You can't predict the future: Although you may be scared, try not to predict what may happen down the road regarding your health. The key is to not worry about the future because there are usually other factors and circumstances that cannot be anticipated and can affect the results of any situation. Focus on the present instead of worrying about what may happen down the road.

8. You are in God's hands: The fact of the matter is that everyone will eventually pass away. Some things in life are just out of our control and your best bet is to include God in your life. You will be better off in the long run if you use the power of God in your life regardless if you are sick or healthy. Remember that God's ways are not our ways.

THINKING ABOUT IT

by Dr. Sharon M. Cadiz

Risking the dangers of trespassing over social norms with regard to a direct discussion related to women and their bodies, I would like to invite us to think about the fact that whether one is Pro-Life or Pro-Choice, the reality remains that laws will not stop or start abortions. Likewise, children will continue to be born in spite of the regulations and policies that might inhibit or support new lives from springing forth. These two realities might just be two parts of the same truth. Both will happen in spite of moral judgement or legal impediments. The bigger question is how they will happen and to what extent that will determine a woman's safety and well-being; or the future prospects for a child. If the intention is to punish women for an undesirable; or what is thought to be a wrongful decision, outlawing abortion will certainly achieve that, and additionally raise the level of self-directed punishment for those who may feel a sense of guilt. If the goal is to safeguard the sacred lives of children, let's broaden our focus to include those who are living and breathing right now, as well as the precious lives that are suspected of being at risk.

Perhaps the other issue to examine is the notion of choice. The decision to have a child or terminate a pregnancy, are both choices. The popular terms seem to blur this fact by suggesting that only one represents a choice. Also, both represent a proactive stand for life whether we are talking about a woman's life or an unborn child's life. The two paths converge at the point where they mask an intention to pass judgment and diverge where they presume a view of right and wrong. The result is more of the same armed conflict that pervades the outspoken views of politics and religion on matters of right and wrong and women's bodies.

Social and economic conditions are another part of the picture that often get overlooked in favor of simplistic conclusions, finger pointing and self-righteous posturing. How many people want to see another unwanted child battered, neglected, abused or murdered; or another woman and her children on the public dole? Polarizing views will continue to see us quarreling over our positions and overlooking opportunities to create a safer and more humane world focused on the betterment of society and safety of both women and children.

Are we thinking synergistically about the best we can do to uplift and sustain ourselves and the planet we live on; or are we willing to sacrifice everything for one more chance to feel right. The losses with any armed conflict are hardly worth the cost in human lives on both sides. This may continue to be the chosen course for this controversial issue; however, we would certainly benefit more from an approach that moves us forward and advances the higher aim of improving upon the conditions that support the greater good by mitigating some degree of existing prejudice, discrimination, inequality, suffering, poverty and want. Instead of proving that we have a lack of capacity for change that addresses deep differences, what about considering the larger life and death issues; the continuing threat of viruses that can travel through our blood, air and water; and the need for universal health care and communities of healing and hope.

Before anyone presumes that I have tipped my hand on where I stand regarding Pro-Life or Pro-Choice, let me jolt you back to the reality that mine won't be the voice that is heard by those who find that they must terminate a pregnancy; or the one who is able to comfort the woman who brings forth a child under the uncertainty of a complex life situation. All decisions, in this regard, are difficult and should probably be left to the woman herself. What I can lend my voice to is the hope that when she makes her plan, there will be safe ways and means for her to carry it out. Finally, I hope that we will find our way out of the attachment to limiting beliefs that too often pay homage to our differences and opposing viewpoints. I further hope that we will be able to escape from a resistance to collaborative problem solving, and instead seek understanding over the judgment that seeks to blame and shame people into doing what is considered right.

COVID-19 Testing in Schools

2021-2022 School Year

schools.nyc.gov

Every school will randomly test weekly unvaccinated students, who have submitted consent for testing, at a threshold of ten percent of unvaccinated students per school population (Pre-K and Kindergarten are excluded). Please note that students must submit a new COVID-19 testing consent form for the 2021-2022 school year to participate in the testing program. Here is a short video showing the quick and easy testing process:

This testing initiative is organized by our partners at NYC Health + Hospitals, the New York City Department of Health and Mental Hygiene (DOHMH), and the NYC Test & Trace Corps. The test is easy, quick, and safe. Instead of the "long swab" that goes in the back of the nose, this test is a short, small swab (like a Q-Tip) that goes just in the front of the nose.

We want to assure you that if your child is selected for testing but is uncomfortable or unable to be tested, we will not test your child and will work with you to address any concerns so that they can participate in future testing. We are focused on making this a brief, and gentle experience for our students, led by trained testers.

If your child is tested, we will let you know they were tested and when and how you will receive the results, which will typically be provided within 48-72 hours. Visit the Supplemental Information for Parents About DOE Agreements With Outside Entities to read answers to a number of questions vendors provided about their privacy and data security practices. The vendors are BioReference Laboratories, Fulgent Genetics, MedRite, and Somos Healthcare.

Consent

- Submitting consent to have your child tested for COVID-19 in school is quick and easy. Please note-if you already submitted consent during the last school year or summer, you will need to do so again for the 2021-2022 school year. There are two easy ways to submit:

- Fill out the form online using a New York City Schools Account (NYCSA) (Open external link)

- If you already have a NYCSA account linked to your student(s): Log in, click your student's name, click "Manage Account," and then when a dropdown menu appears, click "Consent Forms." Read the page, and then choose the consent option at the end for your student.

- If you do not already have a NYCSA account: You can create one right away! If you have an account creation code from your school, you can create a full account in approximately five minutes, and then provide consent as described above. If you do not have an account creation code from your school, you can still provide your consent right away by clicking "Manage Consent" under "COVID-19 Testing" and filling out your and your child's information to provide consent.

- Print and sign the form and bring it to your child's school on the first day they are back in the school building.
