SERVING SUNNYSIDE-WOODSIDE AND LONG ISLAND CITY

VOL. 87 NO. 47

WOODSIDE, L.I.C., N.Y. FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 20, 2020

FREE

On Thursday November, 12th, the Kiwanis International awarded its Everyday Hero Award to the volunteers of the Mosaic Food Pantry at 4601 43rd Ave, Sunnyside. The Mosaic Food Pantry began to address food insecurity when Covid 19 hit and has been operating for over five months and provided groceries to over 35,000 people. The award was given to Brent O'Leary who started the pantry, Sofia Moncayo and Rut

Ostos, who have managed the pantry, Lucy Bodden who has volunteered all these months and Jimmy for Uncle Jimmy's pizza who has provided food and other donations to the pantry and its workers. The award was presented by Howard Brickman the President of the Sunnyside Kiwanis Chapter. For anyone who would like to contribute to this effort, donations can be made at www.mosaicchurchnyc.churchcenter.com under the giving tab and choosing Covid 19 Sunnyside Woodside Food Distribution in the dropdown so it goes to the food pantry.

SUNNYSIDE/WOODSIDE PANTRIES IN CRISIS AS FEDERAL PROGRAMS SHRINK, HOLIDAYS APPROACH.

Sunnyside Shines a holiday fundraiser this week to support two local pantries in Sunnyside and Woodside serving well over 1,000 families weekly. The fundraiser aims to raise at least $20,000 and to provide each pantry with the means to provide holiday grocery items and toys for each pantry's clients. The fundraiser has been launched on a locally-developed platform that doesn't extract fees from the donations, unlike national platforms like GoFundMe; the fundraiser page is located at recause.com/sunnysideshines.

The Mosaic Pantry on 43rd Avenue and the "Manos Que Dan Reciben Bendiciones" pantry on 62nd street in Woodside are a lifeline to many of the areas poorest families, notes Jaime-Faye Bean, Executive Director at Sunnyside Shines. "These are programs that are serving people who have been excluded from the federal stimulus and are often not eligible for formal aid programs," she notes.

This is indeed a different season; one filled with the full-blown reality of life and death struggles, as well as emotionally charged racial tensions; unpredictable weather conditions and uncertainty in our government and economy; yet, Nature seems to be guiding us through the ritual of change and changeless miracles. The leaves are a reminder of the cycle of life and death and the potential for a glorious symphony of color to accentuate a graceful transition from Fall to Winter; acting as our best role model

I have already launched the holiday season with beautiful music and daily gratitude for the breath of life. I fully intend to continue to glorify the present moment by staying awake to the opportunities for witnessing the unfolding of each precious moment of this different season. The current conditions and the foreboding messages will likely give a new challenge to our powers of creativity and put a spin on old traditions for holiday celebrations, but I hope that you will breathe new life into the way you welcome the holidays and introduce a new kind of splendor to all you do.

CALL FOR SUPPORT FOR RESTAURANT OWNERS AMID POTENTIAL RESTRICTIONS TO INDOOR DINING

The Queens Chamber of Commerce has released the following statement from President and CEO Tom Grech calling for government support for restaurant owners amid potential restrictions to indoor dining regulations:

“Restaurants are the lifeblood of our neighborhoods and the backbone of our economy, employing hundreds of thousands of New Yorkers and generating billions in tax revenue for the City and State. Over the past several months, these business owners have done everything asked of them to keep their employees, customers and communities safe, and in many cases gone above and beyond to support the heroic New Yorkers on the front lines fighting the pandemic. But that has come at a cost, with many of these small businesses struggling to make payroll and pay the rent. Disgracefully, their plight has been ignored by our leadership in Washington, who have failed to pass the RESTAURANTS Act, which would provide desperately needed relief.

“Restaurant owners are already hanging on by a thread. The reality of the situation is that if we are forced into another lockdown many of the neighborhood institutions that we love will never open their doors to customers again. I implore New Yorkers to take all necessary precautions to stop the spread of COVID so that restaurants and all businesses can continue to operate safely. We ask that our elected leaders only restrict indoor dining if it is absolutely necessary to do so and provide much needed relief to help these struggling business owners.”

99-YEAR-OLD INDUCTED INTO STATE SENATE VETERANS HALL OF FAME

On Wednesday, November 11, Veterans Day, State Senator Joseph P. Addabbo, Jr. honored the life and sacrifices of a local veteran by inducting him into the New York State Senate Veterans Hall of Fame.

Addabbo presented Ermondo “Butch” Puccio — a 99-year-old Queens native — with the honor for serving in World War II.

“It was an honor and a privilege to be able to present Butch with this plaque and to thank him for his years of service to our country,” Addabbo, a member of the Senate Veterans, Homeland Security and Military Affairs Committee, said. “There are not too many of our World War II veterans left, so it meant a lot to recognize Ermondo for his service time during the world’s greatest conflict.”

Puccio was born on April 15, 1921, in Queens, and at the age of 21 he enlisted as a Private in the United States Army and completed his basic training at Camp Davis in North Carolina. Before being deployed to California in 1943, Puccio married his wife Jennie, and on August 28, 2020, they celebrated their 77th wedding anniversary.

During his years in service, Puccio spent time in New Guinea and the Philippine Islands. While in combat, a .50 caliber machine gun fell on Puccio, injuring him. In January 1946, Puccio returned to the United States, and on February 2, 1946, he was honorably discharged from the Army, reaching the rank of Staff Sergeant.

“Our veterans give up so much, including time at home with their families, while some make the ultimate sacrifice and lay down their lives for our country,” Addabbo concluded. “It is a great feeling to be able to give back to our veterans, and this induction into the NYS Veterans Hall of Fame for Butch is one small way that I can help honor a great soldier, especially on Veterans Day.”

NYC COVID EMERGENCY MANAGEMENT FUNDING

U.S. Senate Minority Leader Charles E. Schumer and U.S. Senator Kirsten Gillibrand today announced $42,997,137.20 in funding for New York City’s Office of Management and Budget. New York City was at the epicenter of the COVID-19 outbreak, and this critical funding will help the city cover previous COVID-19 expenses that helped protect New York’s communities and mitigated the risk of COVID-19. Specifically, this funding covers the cost of enhanced protective measures that have been deployed throughout New York State, including personal protective equipment (PPE), medical equipment, and disinfectant services for public buildings.

“New York City has been on the frontline of combatting the COVID-19 pandemic and this essential funding will give state and city officials the resources needed to mitigate the risk of further spread,” said Senator Gillibrand. “As the pandemic continues into the winter months, this funding will equip our public officials and frontline workers with the resources needed to do their jobs efficiently and to safely rebuild our economy and communities.”

This Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) funding is authorized under Section 403 of the Robert T. Stafford Disaster Relief and Emergency Assistance Act.

INVESTIGATION INTO HORRIFYING CONDITIONS AT USDA-LICENSED PUPPY MILLS

Senate Deputy Leader Michael Gianaris and Assemblymember Linda B. Rosenthal (D/WF-Manhattan) issued the following statement after the Humane Society of the United States announcement of the results of a major investigation into puppy mills across the United States. Senator Gianaris and Assemblymember Rosenthal are the sponsors of New York’s landmark legislation to end the puppy mill to pet store pipeline, banning the sale of dogs, cats, and rabbits in retail pet stores and allowing pet stores to instead make space available to display animals that are available for adoption.

“With so many good animals in need of rescue, there is no need for puppy mills that abuse animals to supply pet stores. Our four-legged companions should be treated with respect, not like commodities,” said Senate Deputy Leader Michael Gianaris. “The Humane Society’s work demonstrates the need we have to shut down the puppy mill to pet store pipeline and I look forward to passing this critical legislation next year.”

“A full quarter of New York’s retail pet stores get their animals from places where outright cruelty and indifference to suffering is baked into the business model, said Assemblymember Linda B. Rosenthal, Chair of the Committee on Alcoholism and Drug Abuse. “Puppy mills and pet stores hide behind the USDA stamp of approval to denote quality, but in this case, it’s a meaningless designation that does not protect consumers or prevent animal abuse. Our legislation gets to the heart of the puppy mill to pet store pipeline, and with so many innocent animals in need of a home, there’s no reason to support a business built on suffering.”

According to HSUS, at least eight of the puppy mill breeders revealed in their investigation sold animals to 20 pet stores in New York State. New York is the state with the largest number of puppy-selling pet stores in the nation.

According to the New York State Department of Agriculture and Markets, the state agency tasked with regulating pet dealers, there are approximately 80 pet stores registered throughout the state.

The State Senate passed this legislation in 2020. The two legislators are working to achieve passage in both houses next year.

THE HOLLY TOUR GOES VIRTUAL! VISIT SIX QUEENS LANDMARKS IN ONE DAY

LEARN HISTORY, BAKE TREATS, ENJOY ART, SING HOLIDAY TUNES

Tradition and modernity will join forces to spread the holiday spirit in Flushing while also fighting the spread of COVID-19 on Saturday, Dec. 6. Via two one-hour sessions on YouTube, six historic landmarks will open their cybernetic doors to the public to celebrate the 33rd annual #HollyTour.

The venues % Bowne House; Flushing Town Hall; Kingsland Homestead; Lewis Latimer House Museum; Quaker Meeting House; and Voelker Orth Museum % will present live and pre-recorded videos as well as interactive content to celebrate the season.

Each host gets about 20 minutes to amaze viewers with content, and ticket prices run from $5 to $35. They are on sale via the Queens Historical Society’s website. Here’s the schedule, followed by more information on the venues.

Bowne House’s first 10-minute segment is a narrated slideshow with a short history of the landmark, the Bowne family’s legacy of fighting for religious tolerance, and the emergence of holiday traditions in Colonial America. The second 10-minute segment is a Bakewell Tart tutorial presented by a Bowne educator which includes video clips of the process and a narrative about the recipe’s historical significance to the Bowne family.

Flushing Town Hall adds some spice with a 15-minute tour of the outdoor garden and community exhibition, “Call and Response: Grief, Resiliency, and Hope,” with Deputy Director Sami Abu Shumays. He also takes viewers inside the gallery, gift shop, and dressing room (a former jail cell) before concluding with a solo violin performance of “Greensleeves” inside the concert hall.

Kingsland Homestead informs on a major Flushing industry in the 18th and 19th centuries: nurseries. (Several prominent Queens families operated nurseries associated with Kingsland.) Then, a crafting expert teaches how make a holiday wreath with some old, locally collected branches, while emphasizing the important role that trees have played in Flushing’s history.

Lewis Latimer House Museum Education Associate Alex Unthank leads a live tour and discussion of the on-site exhibition “Home/Land” with audience participation encouraged. With eight displaying artists, “Home/Land” looks at the Fugitive Slave Act of 1850’s influence on Latimer’s family and compares old tactics to detain, deport, and re-enslave to today’s Immigration Customs Enforcement practices. The exhibition pairs true stories of those who escaped or attempted to escape slavery in the years surrounding the Fugitive Slave Act with recent experiences of families attempting to migrate to the United States with the hope of finding a home in the Land of the Free.

Quaker Meeting House Clerk Jeffrey Guyton narrates a 15-minute video that explores the Quaker values of simplicity, peace, and equality and how they are expressed in the house’s physical features and modern day member activities.

Voelker Orth Museum offers a glimpse of the period rooms where the family hosted guests through the Christmas season along with a short home movie of the Orth family relaxing at home in about 1930. (Expect the Victorian landmark to be dressed in a traditional German-American style with holly trees and outdoor decorations as per the way the Voelker and Orth women used to transform their home during the holidays.)

Plus, viewers can sing holiday tunes with St. John’s University Mixed Chorus Director Kim Oler and Voelker Board Member Norman Jardine, who is active in several choruses. More information is at www.queenshistoricalsociety.org.

SUNNYSIDE/WOODSIDE PANTRIES IN CRISIS

“Without these pantries, and with work still scarce and COVID yet again on the ride, these are families that have to worry every day about when and where there next meal will come.”

The Mosaic Pantry was founded by Sofia Moncayo and other members of the Mosaic Church congregation early in the pandemic. Luis Gaguancela started Manos Que Dan Reciben Bendiciones in the early days of the pandemic as a delivery program, and as need swelled, transitioned to a physical space in Woodside in July.

“We have been blessed by strong support from the local community since our opening,” notes Moncayo of Mosaic Pantry. Even though the need is ever present and growing, we have been able to provide thousands of households with food each month, while having to turn away hundreds as well. It’s heartbreaking to have to turn people away when we know how little they are going home to.

Luis Gaguancela notes that the holidays are a particular challenge for the pantries. “We don’t want anyone going hungry, and that by itself is a challenge. But we really want to go beyond that and make sure every family is able to enjoy a real holiday meal and create special memories for their children.”

Bean notes that all proceeds from the fundraiser will be split evenly between the two pantries and paid out directly to the pantries. The Recause platform, developed by Long Island City-based local Bryan Carlin, allows local organizations and businesses to fundraise for causes without fees, and to match up to a certain amount of donations. “We thought it was great to be able to use a local platform developed by someone who really cares about our community,” notes Bean, “and it gave our Board of Directors the opportunity to step forward with a match.”

The first $2,500 of donations to the fundraiser will be matched by Sunnyside Shines, through contributions from Cooper Realty, LIC Building, Lynch Funeral Home, the Queens Post, and Triad Management. An additional $500 in gift certificates to Fresh n Save supermarkets are being contributed. Donors can give online through December 27th to recause.com/sunnysideshines. Although online donations are strongly preferred, donors may also donate by check by sending a check made out to Sunnyside Shines to PO Box 4477, Sunnyside, NY 11104 with the memo “Pantries fundraiser.”

Letters To The Editor

The following letters are the opinions of its author and not necessarily those of the Woodside Herald.

BRIDGE SPLIT TOLLING

Dear Editor,

How ironic “Verrazzano-Narrows Bridge Split Tolling” (November 13) coincides with the 56th Anniversary for opening of the Verrazzano Narrows Bridge on November 20, 1964. This reminded me of other past transportation history that most have forgotten. Design of the bridge did not include a pedestrian walkway, bicycle path or connection to the existing Fourth Avenue Bay Ridge subway line. Opening of the bridge in 1964 resulted in the subsequent demise of the 69th Street Brooklyn - St. George Ferry. Few remember the long forgotten proposed tunnel between 69th Street in Bay Ridge, Brooklyn and St. George, Staten Island. The concept was to extend subway service from the Brooklyn

BMT line to Staten Island. Ground was broken with entrances at both ends in the 1920’s, but the project quickly ran out of money and was abandoned to history. When living on Shore Road in Bay Ridge Brooklyn, friends and I would look to no avail in attempting to find the abandon site filled in decades earlier. Flash forward 100 years later and we have the proposed $10 billion “Cross Harbor” rail freight tunnel project. This project is sponsored by the NYC Economic Development Corporation and championed by Manhattan/Brooklyn Congress member Jerry Nadler as his number one transportation priority. After thirty years of lobbying by Nadler, the project has yet to even complete the federal National Environmental Review (NEPA) Process. Don’t be surprised if it is doomed to become a relic of history.

Sincerely,
Larry Penner
