I am native of Riverhead, NY. I was raised with four brothers and one sister, in a single-parent, migrant worker's household. After high school, I attended Colgate University, where I played football for four years and I was introduced to the sport of lacrosse. After Colgate, I began my career at the Wilmington Friends School, in Delaware. At Friends, I served as a math teacher and computer coordinator while coaching football and lacrosse.

In 1992, I moved to Chattanooga and began working at the McCallie School, where I served as a math teacher, dorm parent, and coached football and lacrosse. In addition to having the privilege of working with incredible young men and the staff, I was honored with awards for teaching, coaching and mentoring students. My Blue Tornado lacrosse teams also captured eight state titles and I was selected as coach of the year three times during my time on the ridge.

In 2005, I was appointed to the position of Dean of Admission and Financial Aid at McCallie. After serving for ten years in admission, I was appointed to the position of Associate Headmaster for Enrollment and Marketing. One year later, I became the founding executive director of the National Center for the Development of Boys. The Center was established by McCallie to improve the lives of boys by providing resources and programs for parents, teachers, coaches, mentors and organizations committed to helping with their learning and developmental needs. As the executive director of the Center, I provided keynotes, seminars and professional development to over 30,000 parents, educators, coaches, counselors, mentors and members of law enforcement in over 20 states and 3 countries.

In August 2019, I ended my career at McCallie and joined the staff of the Ron Clark Academy (RCA) to serve as their Director of Strategic Initiatives and Partnerships, and provide keynotes and workshops during the Academy's professional development events for over 8,000 educators annually. In addition to working at RCA, I continue to travel the country as a keynote speaker and consultant for schools.

My greatest honor came during the summer of 2019, when McCallie School's parents and alumni showed their appreciation by dedicating a dormitory apartment in the name of my family and created an endowed financial aid scholarship in my name. My family includes my wife of 29 years, three amazing young adults, and two grandsons.
