

The Abraham Accords: They Are Confederate Against Thee

- The Abraham Accords was initially a joint statement of Israel the United Arab Emirates and the United States, reached on August 13, 2020 and subsequently also used to refer collectively to the peace agreements between Israel and the United Arab Emirates (the Israel–United Arab Emirates normalization agreement) and Bahrain, respectively (the Bahrain–Israel normalization agreement). This was the first time any Arab country had normalized relations with Israel since Jordan in 1994. The accords were signed by Bahrain's Foreign Minister Abdullatif bin Rashid Al Zayani, UAE's Foreign Minister Abdullah bin Zayed Al Nahyan and Israeli Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu on September 15, 2020 at the South Lawn of the White House in Washington, D.C. The peace treaty with UAE is officially titled as Abraham Accords Peace Agreement: Treaty of Peace, Diplomatic Relations and Full Normalization Between the United Arab Emirates and the State of Israel, The peace deal between Bahrain and Israel was officially titled Abraham Accords: Declaration of Peace, Cooperation, and Constructive Diplomatic and Friendly Relations, announced by the United States on September 11. The agreements were brokered by Donald Trump, President of the United States. Though Bahrain and the UAE had never been involved in a war with Israel, Gulf countries had boycotted Israel since its independence in 1948. Arab countries however gradually developed clandestine relations with Israel over the years. The State of Palestine quit its role as the chair of Arab League to protest the accords. The accords are named after the patriarch Abraham, regarded as a prophet by both the religions of Judaism and Islam, and traditionally considered a shared patriarch of the Jewish and Arab peoples (by way of Isaac and Ishmael).

- Mohammed descended from Ishmael. Islam is the religion of Ishmael not the Israelites. Just like Judaism is the religion of Esau.
- Abu Ja'far al-Baqir (676–743 AD) wrote that his father Ali ibn Husayn informed him that prophet Muhammad had said: "The first whose tongue spoke in clear Arabic was Ishmael, when he was fourteen years old." Hisham Ibn Muhammad al-Kalbi (737–819 AD) established a genealogical link between Ishmael and Muhammad using writings and the ancient oral traditions of the Arabs. His book, Jamharat al-Nasab ("The Abundance of Kinship"), seems to posit that the people known as 'Arabs' (of his time) were all descendants of Ishmael.[24] Ibn Kathir (1301–1373) writes, "All the Arabs of the Hijaz are descendants of Nebaioth and Qedar." Medieval Jewish sources also usually identified Qedar with Arabs and Muslims.
- Mohammed thought Islam was the true Abrahamic faith. Originally Jerusalem and not Mecca was the holiest city and the one to which they faced when praying. When the Israelites & Edomites refused to accept Islam as the true religion of the Abrahmic covenant; then Mohammed made Mecca the holiest city. He fought many wars with the Israelites and Edomites on the Arabian peninsula forcing many of the Israelites to migrate to Sub-Saharan Africa and Edomites into North Africa. Generally speaking because you had spill over in both cases.
- The qibla (Arabic: قِبْلَة, romanized: qiblah, lit. 'direction') is the direction towards the Kaaba in the Sacred Mosque in Mecca, which is used by Muslims in various religious contexts, particularly the direction of prayer for the salah. In Islam the Kaaba is believed to be a sacred site built by the prophets Abraham and Ishmael, and that its use as the qibla was ordained by God in several verses of the Quran revealed to Muhammad in the second Hijri year. Prior to this revelation, Muhammad and his followers in Medina faced Jerusalem for prayers.

- INTERNATIONAL STANDARD BIBLE ENCYCLOPEDIA (EDOM; EDMITES): They gave what help they could to Nebuchadnezzar, and exulted in the destruction of Jerusalem, stirring the bitterest indignation in the hearts of the Jews (La 4:21; Eze 25:12; 35:3 ff; Ob 1:10 ff). The Edomites pressed into the now empty lands in the South of Judah. In 300 BC Mt. Seir with its capital Petra fell into the hands of the Nabateans. 5. Idumaea and the Idumeans: West of the 'Arabah the country they occupied came to be known by the Greek name Idumaea, and the people as Idumeans. Hebron, their chief city, was taken by Judas Maccabeus in 165 BC (1 Macc 4:29,61; 5:65). In 126 BC the country was subdued by John Hyrcanus, who compelled the people to become Jews and to submit to circumcision. Antipater, governor of Idumaea, was made procurator of Judea, Samaria and Galilee by Julius Caesar. He paved the way to the throne for his son Herod the Great. With the fall of Judah under the Romans, Idumaea disappears from history. Nomadic Nabateans migrated out of Arabia into Edom and drove the Edomites westward. Directly west of Edom were established routes of passage. Land there was historically more prosperous and resourceful than the land of Edom, which consisted of infertile deserts and jagged mountains. Further-more, the land bore a family association: after all, Esau was Jacob's brother. Hebron, 19 miles south of Jerusalem and 3400 ft. above sea level, became their new capital: established 1500 years earlier, unlike Jerusalem, it was left intact as prime real estate after the Babylonian deportation under Nebuchadnezzar. As the Babylonians took Judah into captivity, and angry soldiers wrecked the walls, slew the people, and burned the city, we could have observed their neighboring citizens—the Edomites—encourage the Babylonians to ruin the city: "Raze it! Raze it!" they were calling. "Dash their little children against the stones and wipe out the Jews!" Hebron remained under Edomite control until Judas Maccabeus retook the city under Jewish control in 164 B.C. Thirty-eight years later, in 126 B.C., they had to be reconquered by the Jewish Army under prince and high priest John Hyrcanus. A pivotal event then took place in which Idumeans were forced to be proselytized into Judaism or flee or die. This resulted in many Idumeans pretending to become Jews, yet really were not. In 47 B.C. Julius Caesar promoted the Idumean Antipater as procurator over Judea, Samaria and Galilee. In 37 B.C., the Romans named Herod, son of Antipater, as King over Israel. (His mother was Nabatean). Thus, the Herods of the New Testament were Edomites: One of them killed the Jewish babies in his attempt to destroy Christ;9 another Herod murdered John the Baptist; another one killed James the brother of John. These "almost Jews" were—to the Roman mind—more comfortable than the true Jews. The Idumeans had five centuries of prior history in Israel by the time of the arrival of the Messiah Jesus.

- Esau came out red or light or like a pink man. His parents were Black or a shade of brown. Esau married Hamitic wives and Ishmaelites or Arabs. Ishmael's mother was Hamitic or brown/Black. Edomites can range in skin tone from Olive skinned (Sephardic/Mizrahi j-ISH people) to light brown like Edo or Idoma people. Edomites in Sub-Saharan Africa tend to be a reddish brown. Ashkenazi j-ISH people are primarily Gentile Converts.

 - Abraham's sons Ishmael & Midian are fighting over the promised land because they are butt hurt about the covenant going through Isaac. The Land of Lot or Jordan Abraham's nephew and Isaac's cousin is involved. Abraham's grandson and Isaac's son Esau is butt hurt the covenant went through his brother Jacob. Now Jacob has been scattered to the four corners of the earth via slavery and his uncles, cousins, and brother are fighting over his land/Jerusalem. At the end of the day, earthly Jerusalem is not important. It is Jerusalem which comes down from outer space which is important.
