Claims Preparation

Business Interruption Consulting, LLC is here to help firms and insurance companies navigate the challenging process of preparing claims after catastrophic losses. We start by guiding clients through every step, ensuring they understand what's needed and why. Our team provides the expertise and support to help clients make well-informed decisions throughout the process. During recovery, regular updates are crucial, especially since the business interruption portion of the claim can be complex and harder to manage than property claims.

Gathering documentation and necessary information is a critical part of what we do. We ensure that all relevant data, such as financial records and operational details, are meticulously collected and organized. We also handle the request for progress payments during the adjustment of the claim, helping maintain financial stability. This allows our clients to concentrate on their recovery, knowing their claim is in good hands. Keeping everyone in the loop is key, so we provide regular updates to adjusters, ensuring all parties are informed and aligned.

Our strength lies in analyzing and quantifying claims to present a strong case. We identify and reconcile any issues that might come up, ensuring the claim is thorough and accurate. We attend meetings with adjusters, addressing concerns and advocating for our clients. At the settlement stage, we offer analysis and support to facilitate a fair financial outcome. With our analytical and advisory skills, we tackle the complexities of business interruption claims, guiding clients towards a successful resolution.
