Special Investigations

At Business Interruption Consulting, we offer specialized investigation services for cases that extend beyond traditional financial forensics and auditor malpractice. Our team is experienced in handling complex and unique cases such as divorce settlements, fraud investigations, and embezzlement claims. In divorce cases, we work closely with legal teams to analyze financial records, uncover hidden assets, and ensure an equitable division of marital property. For fraud and embezzlement cases, we conduct thorough investigations to trace missing funds, identify fraudulent transactions, and assess the overall financial damage.

Our special investigation services also cater to more unusual cases that require a tailored approach. Whether the case involves internal employee misconduct, intellectual property disputes, or intricate financial schemes, we provide expert analysis and clear documentation to support legal actions. We leverage forensic accounting techniques to reconstruct financial records, analyze patterns of suspicious behavior, and uncover financial discrepancies that may otherwise go unnoticed.

With a commitment to delivering accurate and comprehensive findings, our special investigation services are designed to assist clients in resolving complex disputes and uncovering the truth. We work diligently to provide reliable evidence and financial insights that are essential for navigating legal challenges, whether through negotiation, litigation, or settlement.
