Lost Profits & Lost Earning Capacity

Economic damages have broad-reaching consequences, regardless of whether those damages occur on an individual or business-wide scale. Business Interruption Consulting, LLC has a long history of aiding the legal community with intricate claims, helping all parties understand the economic damages involved and addressing challenges to the asserted damage amounts. Our professionals are skilled in clarifying these complexities and ensuring that clients are well-informed throughout the process.

For businesses, understanding and calculating lost profits is critical. This involves evaluating the financial performance before and after an incident, such as industrial or offshore accidents, to determine the extent of the economic loss. We regularly assist business owners and contractors by analyzing lost business profits and other related economic impacts. By considering factors like the growth and present value of medical costs and the evaluation of personal consumption, we help businesses gain a clear understanding of their financial losses, enabling them to pursue fair compensation.

On the personal side, assessing lost earning capacity due to personal injury or wrongful termination is equally important. Our team specializes in evaluating lost wages, both past and future, and the overall impact on an individual's financial situation. We work on cases involving motor vehicle accidents, premise accidents, and other incidents that result in significant financial disruption. Additionally, we appraise lost support to survivors in wrongful death cases, ensuring that the economic damages are comprehensively assessed. By thoroughly analyzing these factors, we provide our clients with a clear and accurate picture of the economic impact, helping them to pursue equitable settlements.
