Objectives and interest	Experienced manager focused on results and multidisciplinary development. Mobilizing leader and excellent expertise in real estate development and redevelopment, project negotiation, project and team management, reengineering of urban planning services, architecture, urban design and urban and strategic planning. Experienced project manager attentive to needs and oriented towards the development of individuals and teams, best practices and technology. Constantly acquiring experience and knowledge on management processes, innovative business planning and development, sustainable development, quality control and the principles of continuous improvement. I have interesting canvassing and networking skills between sectors and stakeholders from various directions of an organization and a development project and the enhancement of land, buildings, or territory. With a keen sense of human relations, I am a unifying, mobilizing person who is passionate about teamwork to achieve and accomplish major results-oriented challenges. Having to my credit more than 40 years of experience in territorial redevelopment, in project negotiation of several hundred residential units, large-scale institutional and industrial as well as commercial projects, including my practices at the municipal level in urban planning, permits and inspections and economic development. I am a unifying person linking a team to the realization of important projects. I have a high-level knowledge of the various actors and cogs of the municipal apparatuses as rural, semi-rural as Montreal, regional and provincial. I also have a capacity for support and strategic orientation and coaching of elected officials, mayors and various municipal administrators and actors. I am interested in the latest technologies and trends in management, leadership, development in urban planning, real estate development, sustainable development and architecture. I excel in organizing and facilitating brainstorming sessions and consultation processes for various projects.
