In the increasingly competitive international landscape, a commitment to keeping manufacturing jobs in Canada comes with challenges. Not only do Canadian manufacturers have to compete with low-cost manufacturing facilities in Asia, but as more companies move their facilities offshore and the domestic supply chain dwindles, North American made fabrics and components become difficult to source. We at Naya embrace such challenges.

We also understand that being a Canadian manufacturer has its benefits. Quality control is immediate: from materials to workmanship, addressing potential problems occurs within minutes, not days. Further, Naya's commitment to environmental responsibility is easily monitored and maintained. Quality control, environmental responsibility, creating jobs for Canadians: are all reasons to be proud to be a Canadian manufacturer.

For Naya, the most important reason to manufacture in Canada remains the people. From worker to customer, from paddling enthusiast to champion sailor, people are the inspiration for Naya's designs, innovation, and commitment to staying true to its Canadian roots.
