

Backyard Design and Maintenance

The design and landscape of the backyard is generally at the sole discretion of the lot owner. Structures, such as retaining walls, garden accessories, etc. are generally permitted. It is, however, the homeowner's responsibility to adhere to all building setback lines, building codes, permit requirements and any other requirement and restriction by Sarasota County and to ensure that the backyard design does not interfere with any easement does not violate any provision of the law and does not interfere with the exposure, view or reasonable privacy of adjoining or facing properties.
