#6. Anise Star

Anise Star has a powerful and licorice-like scent, giving a strong top note.

Blends With: Lavender, Pine, Orange, Rosewood, Clove, and Cinnamon.

Product Abstract: A small to medium evergreen tree of the magnolia family, reaching up to 8m (26ft). The fruits are harvested before they ripen, then sun dried. Tough-skinned and rust colored, the seed pods measure up to 3 cm long. The Japanese plant this tree in their temples and on tombs and use the pounded bark as incense. This essential oil may solidify, and if so, must be heated to be brought back to a liquid state. This attests to the purity of the oil.

#34. Forest Flower

Plant diversity in forests comes not only from trees, but from the ferns, wildflowers, and other herbaceous plants. We sense that taking a walk in a forest is good for us. We take a break from the rush of our daily lives. We enjoy the beauty and peace of being in a natural setting. Visiting a forest has real, quantifiable health benefits, both mental and physical. Think of it as a prescription with no negative side effects that's also free.

This fragrance simulates the wonderful life experience. Rasheed Natural Fragrances brings together a delicate blend of plants (Oak Moss, Cedar Amber, Geranium, Sandalwood, Narcissus, Honeysuckle, Citronella) that will give you the sense that you're taking a walk in a forest.

#45. Kyphi

Kyphi is a compound incense that was used in Ancient Egypt for religious and medical purposes. The scent of this kyphi is sweet, with a honey undertone throughout. The smell is extremely pleasant and makes you want to take big breaths of it. It is especially good for consecrating objects or a room. The smell is somehow narcotic and brings to mind forgotten days of the past, creating a comforting space. Breathing it in, one becomes aware of one's breath. The sleepiness that all the versions of kyphi cause is here joined by hearing voices talking quietly instead of seeing visions. You can feel the shift from day to night that is associated with kyphi. This would make this kyphi especially good for works focusing on transition, especially gradual ones.

#100. Honeysuckle India

The use of honeysuckle dates as far back as the Bronze Age, in parts of Britain. This magical flower appears in both Chaucer's and Shakespeare's work. The vines of the honeysuckle plant entwined together symbolize the fidelity and desire shared between two lovers, which is why this flower is often brought into a home, to promote feelings of devotion and love between the people who live there. A visionary flower, honeysuckle is a powerful Third Eye opener. This flower deepens intuition, encourages lucid dreaming, promotes calmness and tranquility, and is known to induce visions. This fragrance encourages you to move forward, make peace with the past, and embrace the sweetness of the present. Honeysuckle is also associated with financial gain, good luck, success, and is known as a powerful aphrodisiac. It is a powerful attraction of love.
