

Scenario #8 Flooding

After a very dry couple of years and a few wild-land fires, the hills in northern SLUDMAR have been left barren of trees. Lack of rainfall has also been an issue in that it has caused a drought in the city.

The weather is turning, however, and rain is on the way. On today's date and time, a much needed winter rainstorm has arrived. The needed water is showing up in a torrent coming down in President's Canyon in the county. Floodwaters have risen up the canyon walls chasing out hikers and at the mouth of the canyon in the south flooding are spreading in the neighborhoods both in the county and in the city. The main of flood damage is along the river coming out of the canyon and overflowing into streets and homes. Guadalupe Park, Guadalupe Elementary School and Memorial Hospital are all experiencing severe flooding.

The storm is anticipated to last another four to five hours with a break and another serious storm following in 24 hours.
