

SAMPLE: EYES ONLY

GET SMARTER-ER

Zigfried and Roy approach each other at center of room and spin shoulder to shoulder. After each reply, both look around as if they are about to start speaking secrets.

ZIGGIE: The locust tastes best when the moon is full.

ROY: The locust is not just a bean, but also a voracious insect.

Ziggie dance steps out into position to give the next code. Roy spins in next to him.

ROY: Cassius Clay has a television of color in his limousine.

ZIGGIE: The wet loon flies at midnight.

ROY: What?

ZIGGIE: The wet loon flies at midnight.

ROY: No, that code has been changed. The new code is the wet loon barks at midnight.

ZIGGIE: But this is stupid, loons don't bark.

ROY: I didn't write the code, I just know what it is.

ZIGGIE: So what is the new reply?

ROY: "I don't know what you mean."

ZIGGIE: The reply to the code.

ROY: "I don't know what you mean."

ZIGGIE: You cannot be this stupid. Every challenge code has a reply. The new challenge is, "the wet loon barks at midnight," so what is the new reply?

ROY: See if you can follow me. (Roy walks - Zigfried follows) The answer to "the wet loon barks at midnight" is ... (stops abruptly, using hand to highlight - like a marquee) "I don't know what you mean."

ZIGGIE: Oh, ja! That's what I wrote!

ROY: You wrote the code?

ZIGGIE: Of course I wrote the codes, I am the boss. The Big Cheese. The Top Banana. The Fat Cat. (the head Honcho, the Big Kahuna)

ROY: I was going to say ...

ZIGGIE: Shut up!!