

My Harry Potter Cover

By Christopher William Anton Janson

This article is about my magical world of Harry Potter stamp cover.

I began by sketching Harry's face, ear, and nose, while using a couple of pictures as reference. After that, I moved on to draw his glasses and eyes. I then took the appropriate colored pencils and markers, and finished my drawing with all the magical color it needed.

After printing the artwork onto my envelopes, they were mailed to get them serviced with the "First Day of Issue" cancel in Florida.

When I got my covers back, I spent time examining each of them to find the one with the best stamp and cancel to scan for this article.

My choice is illustrated here . . . with Dumbledore on the stamp with my cachet of Harry Potter on the left.

I hope you enjoy it, as I put a lot of hard work into creating it.
