

A BAKER'S DOZEN

I don't recall a season where it was so hard to get exactly 13 runs in one game. There's been 14's, 15's, even a 20, but the Baker's Dozen has been tough to land on. 7 weeks in and only 4 teams have done it. Could make for a long, hot summer. . .

I gave you the highlight early in the week. The first team to get to 1 number away has been achieved and they (Cleveland, and Teresa Kelly) still are the only one. So, they have the clear edge but 12 is a tough get too so no one is giving up.

11 teams are two away and I expect one or two of those to make the short list this week.

The other Ohio team is one of them. Cincinnati had a big week for Mike Lamagna, nailing both the 12 and elusive 13 early in the week. Mike's not going on a spending spree quite yet as he still needs 10 and 11 but he's a contender right now.

Enjoy the last week of Hockey and Hoops, soon it will be only Baseball to entertain us until College Football in August. That's it everyone. Talk soon.
