

IT'S VERY INTERESTING

Late in her life Jackie Onassis sat for an interview. The interviewer asked her if she could sum up her life in one sentence. She thought about it for a moment and came up with this brief synopsis. "It's been very interesting", she said. Quite the understatement.

This pool, even with a glacially slow week (only 7 numbers hit all week) has just become very interesting. Perhaps not as interesting as Jackie's life, but for us, very much so.

Seattle punched out 9 runs on Monday to join the One Away Club. Rose Johnson knows better than to celebrate too soon. They need the big number so it may be never come to pass. But a girl can dream. . .

A couple of 15 run efforts on Tuesday didn't help anyone. A 19 run game on Sunday for the Giants. Needed numbers are coming slowly, very slowly.

The #3 finally came off the board for all teams on Wednesday, usually the 1st or 2nd to go. Stubborn this year. The 6 and 8 may go before this pool ends.

Pittsburgh made things exciting for Carolyn Johnson on Saturday, the 4th team knocking at the door of victory. They need the 11, so kind of a co-favorite, with the Yankees.

Good vibrations for the Johnson girls - - not related BTW — but good vibes none the less.

Only 1 score hit on Sunday, but an important one. The Dodgers scored 9 runs to put them in the now not so exclusive One Away Club. Paul Korinth probably expected to be in this position from the moment the draw came out. Five teams in line to end this, and it would be record tying for brevity if it happens this week.

Kids, I think I will be talking to you soon. This week will be A very interesting week . . .
