

The Society of Layerists in Multi-Media

The Society of Layerists in Multi-Media (SLMM) celebrates its 40th anniversary this year. It was incorporated in May 1982 and a year later became a non-profit organization. Membership is over 150 members in the United States and Canada. During its history, it has had over fifty local and national shows in museums and galleries, both in the United States and abroad. The Society has published four books.

The Kansas members have chosen to honor the 40th anniversary of SLMM by putting together a small exhibition of “About Trees.”

The purpose of SLMM is to serve as a network for artists who express a holistic perspective, in which everything relates to everything else, across time and space. Layered art can be done in any medium, but it shares a unifying intention.

The founder, Mary Carroll Nelson, writes “the deepest source of Layered art is the inner landscape of the artists, where a myriad of images and memories coalesce unto a related whole. Often Layerists imbue their work with a sense of otherness which gives Layered art a spiritual quality. Many Layerists have had an “Aha!” moment in which they recognize the hidden connections in everything that is, was or will be.”

To learn more about the Layerists, the website is www.slmm.org

Kansas members of SLMM creating work for “About Trees”

