

The Planets War

One day, the planets were celebrating Earth's birthday. Mars had started a petition about Earth if he should be a dwarf planet. Then Sun, Saturn, Neptune, and Uranus chose Earth to stay, but Mars, Venus, Jupiter, and Mercury chose that he should be a dwarf planet. Mars was so mad that it was a tie she started a war. They got so mad at each other that they created a black hole. The black hole sucked them up and got them into another universe.

Suddenly, everything stopped. They all got so scared that they started saying sorry and apologizing. Then Earth had an idea. He remembered that when they started fighting, that was when they got sucked up by the black hole. So, he shared what had happened and they made a plan. The plan was if they started fighting again, they would be able to make another black hole until they get back to their original universe. Soon there was another war going on and they got back but it was not the right universe. It was a replica! Afterward, they had no more strength to keep fighting so they had to stay there for the meantime.

When they got their energy back, they tried fighting again but they were stuck because they continued but there was no black hole. They tried again, but it did not work! So they just stayed and settled for at least a few years. Soon after some years passed, they all forgot that they were in a different universe. So, that is how we have our solar system named Milky Way.
