FEEDBACK, COMPLIMENTS AND COMPLAINTS

POLICY AND MANUAL

Definition: SBSS considers that feedback includes; a complaint involving any issue of concern raised by (or involving) a person using the service, or who used the service in the past, or who has applied to access SBSS services, a comment (including complements) from a service user or service user representative or a suggestion of improvement of the operation or management of services (not necessarily relating to dissatisfaction with the service).

Position Statement: SBSS is committed to providing an efficient and effective feedback handling service to participants, their advocates, service providers and the community.

We value feedback from those who work with us as it helps us to improve our services by revealing areas where we need to change our policies and practices.

SBSS is committed to ensuring that any feedback we receive is handled in a way that is responsive, fair and courteous and that respects the privacy of the person providing the feedback. We also undertake to make sure that we provide reasons for any decisions we make in relation to feedback we receive.

Context: Providing a system for complaints handling and review is integral to the Disability Act 2006. Principles of human rights and citizenship guide the Act. These principles particularly come into effect when people with a disability are empowered to exercise their rights and choices in the decisions that affect their lives.

Registered NDIS providers are required to have complaints management arrangements in place and support people with disability to understand how to make a complaint to the provider and to the NDIS Commissioner under the National Disability Insurance Scheme (Complaints Management And Resolution) Rules 2018.

The NDIS Quality and Safeguards Commissioner will be responsible for supporting the resolution of complaints about the provision of supports and services by all NDIS providers.

This policy applies to all complaints that relate to the service SBSS provides. These include, but is not limited to feedback regarding:

- the manner in which a service has been provided
- disagreement with decisions made by SBSS
- a failure to provide a service, or lack of responsiveness to a request for service
- the unfair or poor treatment of a person
- difficulties with getting access to our services, such as a failure to provide assistance with communication difficulties
- complaints about our handling of people’s personal and health information
- conflict of interest between an employee’s official duties and their private interest
- SBSS processes

Who is responsible for this policy?

SBSS director.

PROCEDURE

1. Promoting Individual Rights

- Throughout all phases of service provision, SBSS staff-
 - Support service users to understand their right to make a complaint or provide feedback to anyone providing them services.
 - Empower our participants and service users voices
 - Promote and encouraging all service users’ participation in decision-making
 - Value and respecting our service users’ opinions

- Seeking people's views about what makes them feel safe and unsafe, and how they would like to be involved in the design of their service delivery
- Establishing an environment of trust and inclusion that enables service users to ask questions and speak up if they are happy or unhappy about any part of the service.

2. Information provision

- Director will provide written and verbal information about how to provide feedback to all people who use the service at the outset of services. This included in service agreement and information booklet.
- This information is contained on the website and in the client information booklet.
- Director will:
 - Provide this information at the time services commence or on request; and
 - Update this information at the outset of new service agreements.
- Director will endeavor to ensure the information is in a language and format that the person is likely to understand.
 - Director will support people who use the services through the complaints process and ensure that people making a complaint are not adversely affected.
 - Director will foster environments that encourage people we support to provide open and honest feedback.

3. Steps for making a complaint

- Practitioners should advise a Director immediately if a written or verbal complaint or complaint is made to them directly.
- Director will initially try to resolve arising issues informally when and where it occurs, directly with the person involved. This is to be documented in case notes and if resolved does not need to progress further.
- If an individual does not feel comfortable making the complaint to their worker, service users can contact the service via email or provide feedback anonymously via the website compliments and complaints form.
- If people want advice or support to make a complaint, they may contact an external advocacy agency, the NDIS quality and safeguards Commission. Details for these services are included in the information booklet provided to service users and within the Advocacy Support Resource provided to participants.
- Service users may at any time refer a complaint to an external agency.
- People should consider that external agencies often require a complainant first to make all reasonable attempts to resolve a complaint within the immediate organisation.
- See Sections 5 below for further information about external agencies.

4. How to make a complaint

- People may make a complaint by any of the following means:
 - Written (eg. letter, email, online through the website);
 - Verbal (face-to-face, telephone, tele-therapy); or

- Any other communication that a person uses.
- Director will record complaints in the feedback and complaints internal database.

5. Complaints to external agencies

- People may make a complaint to the NDIS quality and safeguards Commission if SBSS director is unable to resolve their complaint.
- The NDIS quality and safeguards Commission works with complainants and disability support providers to resolve complaints. This may include informal discussions, conciliation processes or, under certain circumstances, formal investigation. People may make a complaint to the NDIS quality and safeguards Commission at any time.

Other external agencies also handle complaints. These agencies include:

- The Disability Services Commissioner
- Office of the Public Advocate (for matters related to the rights of people with a disability);
- Health Services Commissioner (for complaints about health services and privacy in health services);
- Victorian Privacy Commissioner (for complaints about information privacy); and
- Victorian Equal Opportunity and Human Rights Commission (for complaints about discrimination and harassment).

6. Complaint management

- Director must complete an Incident Report if required (see Incident Reporting Procedure).
- Director will ensure that, when handling complaints from people with complex communication needs, someone is involved who has a good understanding of the person's communication. The person who needs support should choose the person who supports them.
- Director will request the following information from a person making a complaint:
 - The circumstances giving rise to the complaint;
 - A timeline of events;
 - Any previous actions taken to resolve the complaint; and
 - What the person expects in resolving the complaint.
- Director will document the actions and decisions related to complaints, including complaints that escalate to a higher level (see Section 8 below).

7. Responding to a complaint

- Director will acknowledge a written complaint by return letter, fax or email within two working days of receipt (with the exception of notified closure periods – in which case complaints will be responded to within 2 days of recommencement of services). SBSS considers all complaints from people we support to be genuine and important.

- Director will acknowledge a verbal complaint immediately and explain the process for responding to a complaint.
- Director will propose a resolution to a complaint within seven working days. The deadline for proposing a resolution may be extended if agreed to by the person making the complaint.
- The objective in responding to a complaint is always to work toward a positive outcome for the person we support.

8. Maintaining records

- Director will retain copies of documents related to complaints in a separate, service specific feedback and incident database.
- Individual feedback will be documented in the relevant client folders.
- All complaint records will be retained for a minimum of 7 years.

9. Reviewing complaints

- Director will review complaints to identify areas of service delivery that require improvement.
- Director will review individual and aggregated complaints to identify opportunities for systemic improvements, including improvements to the complaints process.
