

CANE TOADS HAVE BEEN THRIVING IN SW FLORIDA. UNTIL NOW.

The Invasive Cane Toad

Cane toads, also known as bufu or marine toads, are a large invasive species that are poisonous to most animals including domestic pets. The Florida Fish and Wildlife Conservation Commission (FWC) encourages communities to have the toads removed and euthanized whenever possible. Community Field Services offers trapping services which includes disposal of toads, rebaiting and resetting the traps for communities in Southwest Florida.

Reducing Cane Toad Populations up to 90%!

Help Return Balance to Florida's Native Wildlife

Cane Catcher is a Long-Term, Sustainable Solution

Female Cane Toads Can Produce as many as 30,000 Eggs per Season

Protect Your Beloved Pets!

COMMUNITY FIELD SERVICES INC.

239-284-6662

cpepin@communityfieldservices.com

www.communityfieldservices.com