The United States Constitution

Article II, Section 1 of the U.S. Constitution imposes only three eligibility requirements on persons serving as president, based on the officeholder's age, time of residency in the U.S., and citizenship status:

U.S. Constitution – Presidential Candidate Eligibility

"No person except a natural born Citizen, or a Citizen of the United States, at the time of the Adoption of this Constitution, shall be eligible to the Office of President; neither shall any person be eligible to that Office who shall not have attained to the Age of thirty-five Years, and been fourteen Years a Resident within the United States."

United Nations Draft Resolution

Global Policy Against Government-Induced Hate

Preamble

The General Assembly,

- Recalling the principles enshrined in the Universal Declaration of Human Rights and the Convention on the Rights of the Child,
- Recognizing that hate is not inherent but is taught, and that governments have the capacity to condition citizens toward violence or compassion,
- Alarmed by evidence of systematic indoctrination that normalizes hostility and dehumanization, including calls for generational annihilation,
- Affirming that such practices constitute a threat to international peace and security and a grave violation of human dignity,
- Determined to ensure that no government may use its people — especially its children — as instruments of hate,

Hereby declares the following global policy framework:

Article I. Recognition of Hate Indoctrination as a Human Rights Violation

1. The intentional indoctrination of citizens into hatred, hostility, or calls for generational extermination shall be recognized as a violation of international human rights law.
 2. Such acts shall constitute crimes against humanity when committed by governments or state actors.

Article II. The Protection of Children

1. Children are universally recognized as protected persons.
2. Any rhetoric, policy, or educational content that advocates harm to children, or teaches children to hate others, is prohibited under international law.
3. Governments engaging in such practices will be subject to investigation and accountability.

Article III. Education, Media, and Oversight

1. UNESCO, in cooperation with the Office of the High Commissioner for Human Rights, shall develop universal benchmarks for curricula and media standards that prohibit indoctrination of hate.
2. The United Nations shall establish a Global Commission on Hate Indoctrination (GCHI) tasked with monitoring compliance and reporting annually.
3. Nations found to be in violation shall be referred to the Security Council for appropriate action.

Article IV. Accountability Mechanisms

1. States engaging in systemic hate indoctrination shall be subject to sanctions, including suspension of aid, trade restrictions, and limits on participation in international forums.
2. Leaders directly responsible for incitement or indoctrination may be prosecuted under an expanded mandate of the International Criminal Court.

Article V. Prevention and Rehabilitation

1. A Global Education for Humanity Fund shall be established, supported by member states and financed through contributions and penalties imposed on violators.
2. Funds shall be used to:
 - Support curriculum reforms that teach empathy, coexistence, and nonviolence.
 - Develop reconciliation and dialogue programs to heal communities affected by hate indoctrination.

- Provide resources for public awareness campaigns against propaganda.

Article VI. Sovereignty & Safeguards

1. Affirms that this policy framework respects the sovereignty of all nations, and further declares that sovereignty cannot be invoked to shield systemic indoctrination into hate, which is itself a violation of sovereignty as protection of the people.
2. Recognizes the risk of misuse of human rights frameworks for political gain, and therefore establishes that enforcement shall be carried out only through transparent, independent, and publicly accountable mechanisms, with non-military measures prioritized.
3. Declares that this global framework may never be used as a pretext for aggression, conquest, or domination, but solely as a safeguard for human dignity, human rights, and the protection of future generations.

Article VII. Implementation

1. Member states are called upon to integrate this policy into domestic law within five years of adoption.
2. Regional bodies are encouraged to adopt complementary frameworks.
3. The Secretary-General shall oversee the coordination of UN bodies to ensure enforcement and progress reporting.

Article VIII. Global Commitment

The United Nations affirms:

- No child shall inherit hate.
- No people shall be conditioned to see genocide as acceptable.
- No government shall have the right to weaponize its own citizens.
